The Harvesters, Pieter Bruegel the Elder (1565)

The twelve apostles named in today's gospel had the supreme privilege of spending the three or so years of Jesus' public life with close companionship with him. What is recorded in the gospels is just a tiny fraction of all the apostles' experience with the Lord. Jesus chose them precisely so that they should be the first people to share their knowledge of the Lord, and to bring all peoples the healing and forgiveness of God. This remains the core mission of the Church. Through the ages, in the tradition of the apostles, the Church continues to proclaim the Good News and to bring to people to Jesus, the true shepherd of their souls.
